December 3rd 2020: Transform Something: Be the Difference with Troy Simonson and Paul Batz

Challenging you to think differently and do things differently, have more impact, have more fun...to search for what is perceived as impossible to do in your field or industry, but if done, would be transformative. With my guests, we will discuss how they discovered exciting transformation opportunities. How it was meaningful in their organizations and to themselves. Understanding their successes, their stumbles, their regrets, and the wonderful things they learned in the journey.

Featured Guests

Paul Batz

Paul Batz is changing the conversation about the value of leadership. He founded Good Leadership to help CEOs, business owners, executives, and community leaders grow with the idea Goodness Pays. Paul's not-so-secret sauce is demonstrating how excellence, generosity, fairness, and positivity are rewarded with great business results. Paul's personal mission is to help leaders and employees thrive together by blending the Seven Fs: Faith, Family, Finances, Fitness, Friends, Fun, and Future into their leadership. He uses proprietary Goodness Pays research as the subject for coaching, speaking, and inspirational programming.

Troy Simonson

CEO of Revo Health, Troy oversees a large healthcare management services organization that is focused on delivery of value-based care and creating service-driven cultures. Revo Health was formed in 2017 out of Twin Cities Orthopedics (TCO) and today has partnerships with multiple healthcare entities. Prior to Revo Health, Troy spent 16 years with TCO. Troy joined TCO in 2004 as the Business Office Administrator. In January 2013, Troy was named TCO's first CEO in an effort to continue to strengthen the TCO brand and identity and focus on high-quality, low-cost medicine with the ultimate goal of elevating TCO as an innovative healthcare leader. He has led the mergers of independent practices i
