

Family Caregivers Unite!
Archives Available
July 26th 2011: Help with diabetes for diabetics and their families

Marc Kealey is a lead voice in North America on health reform, integrated health and drug benefit plan enhancement, and healthcare policy. John Wunderlich is an independent information and privacy consultant in Toronto who describes himself as a middle-aged guy with Type II diabetes who's active in a political party. They discuss diabetes-related challenges. They say how well these challenges are being met by the healthcare system, healthcare professionals and persons with diabetes and their families. For improving the way the challenges are being met, they explore the responsibilities they see

Read more

DOWNLOAD PDF GET CODE

Tune in

Archives Available on
VoiceAmerica Variety Channel

EPISODE ON DEMAND

VIEW HOST PAGE

Featured Guests

Marc Kealey

With 30 years' experience in healthcare management and advocacy, Marc Kealey is a leading voice for transformation in health care, most notably drug reform. He's the Chief Advocate at K&A Inc., <http://kealeyandassociates.com/>, a public policy and management consultancy with clients in Canada and abroad. His success results from many years of experience in governance, public policy development and health care management.

Read more

John Wunderlich

John Wunderlich is an independent information and privacy consultant in Toronto. His background in privacy includes protecting employee data for a Canadian payroll and HR outsourcer, protecting patient

Read more

Share This Episode

Share On Facebook Share On Twitter Share On LinkedIn

Connect with VoiceAmerica

Download our mobile apps

Read what our hosts are writing about.

