David Gerry began learning about Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder (FASD) on becoming a foster parent to two children with FASD. He's co-founder of 'Living with FASD Summit', <http://LivingWithFASD.com>. He talks about his experience with family caregiving for the children. He discusses the roles of adoptive parents and birth mothers as family caregivers for children living with FASD. He describes the challenges that FASD creates for children and young people including those involved in the justice system, and their family caregivers. He explains what he sees as the most effective types of support
