May 5th 2015: The Challenges of PTSD for Military Personnel and their Family Caregivers

Franziska Buri, of Ontario, Canada, is a military spouse of a 22-year Canadian Armed Forces Veteran. He was deployed to Afghanistan in 2008 and was severely wounded as a result of an enemy attack. She talks about her life, career and experience with family caregiving. She explains her husband's injuries that resulted from his military service in Afghanistan. She describes what she sees as the greatest challenges created for military personnel by serious injuries sustained during military service, and for their military spouses and their families. She highlights True Patriot Love Foundation's h
